A Tame Republican Harrangue, followed by Rousing Democratic Speeches.

While the review was progressing at Pen dleton on last Friday, information came that the Radicals of the Fork intended to have a political meeting at Parker's Church, near Townville, at 3 o'clock that afternoon. They had previously announced that they would hold a meeting at this place on the next afternoon, and the report became current that they had changed the time to Friday, so as to prevent the Democrats, who were attending the "Red Shirt" parade, from being at their meeting to take part in it. On this information, Gen. E. W. Molse, Col. J. A. Hoyt and Maj. E. B. Murray, with the companies of Captains J. M. Kidd, F. L. Sitton and R. E. Mason, left Pendleton between 1 and 2 o'clock, for the purpose of attending the meeting. As the companies in advance came upon the meeting, they found the party dispersing, and it is believed that a courier conveyed them the information that the Democrats would be at the meeting, and therefore Parker, the Republican County Chairman, announced that he would hold his meeting at 2 o'clock on the following day, as previously appointed. Gen. Moise was compelled to return to Columbia, and could not wait for the meeting, but Messrs. Hoyt and Murray remained over to take a hand in it. Capt.

Mason's company declined returning on the next cay, and Capt. J. C. Stribling's Flying Ardillery was sent for in its stead. At the appointed hour the arrangements were made for opening the meeting. R. Parker was to speak first, and be followed by Col. Hoyt and Maj. Murray, after which Newton Whitner as to close for the Republicans. Before the meeting was opened it was stated that a colored man named Andy had come to the meeting armed and threatening to have a row. Parker nominated this man for Chairman, but Mr. Murray announced that he nor any other man who came there to have a row should preside over the meeting, and after a little consultation, Col. Hoyt suggested that each speaker act as his own chairman, which was agreed to. Parker then made the first speech in a very conservative and general way, travelling over the landing of the slaves, the revolution, the late war, reconstruction, &c. He and the colored people were willing to join the Democrats and vote with them in this County if they would give them one representative and one County Commissioner He claimed that the INTELLIGENCER'S account of the County Republican Convention was incorrect, and misrepresented him about ruling the motion to endorse Gov. Hampton out of order. He also stated that he had always been willing to go with the Democrats if they would give the colored people a part of the offices, and that in the last campaign he had proped it to Col. Hoyt, who agreed that Parker should call a meeting of the colored people and he would call one of the Democrats to consider the question, but they did not do so. He dwelt on the slavery question, and closed as usual with vulgar and indecent language.

He was followed by Col. Hoyt, who began by denying that he agreed to call a meeting to cosider Parker's proposition, and said that to told Parker to call his meeting and submit its action to him. Parker admitted that this was correct, and Col. Hoyt gave as his reason that he knew Parker's name would be on the list presented, and he wanted to let him show himself in this way. He spoke of the just and equal course pursued by the Democrats towards the colored people, and commented on the great advantages offered the colored people in our provisions for public education. He rasped Parker for the irreverent and vulgar language which he used, showing that such conduct was highly improper in a minister. He advised Parker to retire from politics and devote himself to his ministry. Parker said he could not make a living at preaching, and Col. Hoyt told him if he would quit politics and try it he would agree to make a speech to his congregation, showing them the importance of supporting their preacher. He dwelt at length on the importance of friendly relations between the races, and showed that gratitude and self-interest combine to make it the duty of the colored man to support Gov. Hampton and the Democratic party. As Maj. Murray went upon the platform, Morris Carter, a retorious colored politician of the Fork also, stepped up and announced that he intended to speak then. Mr. Murray, in laconic style, invited him off of the platform, and he accepted the invitation, saying, as he left, "I beg your pardon, sir." Mr. Murray then began by urging the colored people to be friendly with the white people, on whom they are dependent for their work and support. He said there was nothing to be gained by this political excitement. That the colored people were in a great minority in this County, and were wasting time in politics, besides keeping up strife where there was no reason for it. He said the Democrats had treated them fairly, and would continue to do so, and asked if they could point to a single instance where a law had been passed that hurt the colored man. Parker said, the fence law. Mr. Murray proved on him and made him own that he himself advocated the adoption of that law, and then advised the colored people not to follow the man who was hypocritical enough to advise them to do a thing and then turn round after it was done and say it was a bad law. He then made Parker admit that the INTELLIGENCER's account of admit that the INTELLIGENCER'S account of the Republican County Convention was correct, and asked the colored people how much confidence they could have in a man that would deny a thing that he knew was true. He then told them that the white people had been better to them than they would have been to the white people if they had had the opportunity, and cited them to the Constitution of Liberia, which profilities white persons from voting or holding office. He condemned Parker's raking up of the past 240 years to prejudice them sgainst the Democrats, and said that it was ungrateful in him, as Col. Cothran, the Democratic Solicitor, had forgiven him of the charge of getting too much school money a short time ago. He told the colored people that they had better let the past he past and take care of the present. That they had better look after bread and meat.

That the Democratic party was the party to get it in. He told the colored people that they were not prepared for filling the position of legislators yet, and proved it to them by a series of questions to Parker, none of which was he able to answer. Next he aitacked Parkor for mixing religion with positics, and made him own to taking up a collection in his Church to pay his expenses to the Ladical State Convention.

The day was a most successful one, and it is believed its results will be very beneficial to the Democratic party in this County.
We have only given a very brief outline of porilors of the speeches. They were comprehensive and judicious, and evidentily cade a fine impression upon the colored people. They also rasped Parker to such advantage as to place him in a very undestrable position before both white and colored people, and will no doubt cause him to think carefully before he attempts to hold another Republican meeting. The conduct of the members of Capts. Kidd, Sit ton and Stribling's companies on this occasion is worthy of the highest commendtion, as there was not an improper act. I'r

Dr. Jones responded in an earnest and eloquent petition to the giver of all good for his blessing upon every condition of mankind He especially prayed that God would pour out his blessings upon the rulers of our Nation and our State, and by His Holy Spirit govern and direct their paths in justice towards men and in fear of the Lord. He closed by a petition for the restoration of Governor Hampton to health, and asked that he might be spared for many years of honor and usefulness to the people of his State and Nation. Col. James A. Hoyt, who was requested to introduce the speakers, congratulated the people of Pendleton upon having the first grand mass meeting in the campaign of 1878, and said that it brought to his recollection the brilliant canvass of 1876. He said that it was a matter of great regret to all present that Governor Hampton could not attend this meeting, and that he was sure every heart went forth in unison with State jurisdiction. He said further, that the eloquent prayer which had been uttered asking for his speedy restoration to health. He then introduced to the audience Mai. E. B. Murray, who had been invited to deliver the address before the "Red Shirts" upon this occasion. Mr. Murray began by alluding to the oc-casion which brought us together as the second anniversary of the adoption of the red shirt as a political campaign uniform, ard said that it was no unimportant event in the history of our State. He referred to the oppressive and tyrannical government which had been forced upon us as the result South Carolina bore this humiliation and oppression with a patience and a patriotism which none but a brave, intelligent and herole people could have evinced. That this course had been pursued in the hope that better days would come, but that after eight years of submission the patience and endurance of our people had been exhausted, and as one man throughout the State the people of Carolina determined that by their | plenty for the whole crowd and to spare. manhood and their strength they would be free. A ticket for State officers, headed by the immortal Hampton, had been put in the field, and that a straightout fight was determined upon. That to further this landable innvenent campaign monated 24th day of August, 1873, the red thirt which he held in his hand was made for The dea spread in a very short time over the whole State, thereby inspiriting and enthusing the champions of liberty until the novement became so strong that neither the proclamation of Governor Chamberlain, nor that of Presider & Grant, with the United States bayonets to support it, was able to make them disband. The red shirts, he believed, contributed more to the great victory won than any other one factor which entered the canvass. He said that there were a number of claimants for the honor of originating the straightout movement, and sary of the adoption of the Red Shirt as a he supposed that every one of them is fully satisfied that he is entitled to the praise. Inasmuch as we commented a short time ago on the course of certain colored preachers in this County who are paying a great deal more attention to politics than to religion, we take this occasion to commend the osition of Rev. His advice on this subject is excellent, and if obeyed will add greatly to the influence and success of the colored preachers.

arise from malarious, marsh, or missmatio poisons.

This is a compound remedy, prepared with acientific skill from vegetable ingredients, which rarely falls to cure the severest cases of Chills and Fever and the concentiant disorders. Such a remedy the necessities of the people in malaricos districts demand. Its great superiority over any other medicine yet discovered for the cure of Intermittents is, that it contains no quinine or mineral, and those who take it are free from danger of quinism or any injurious effects, and are as healthy after using it as before. It has been extensively employed during the lart thirty years in the treatment of these distressing disorders, and as unvarying has been its success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. It can, be safely recommended as a sure remedy and specific for the Fover and Ague of the West, and the Chillis and Fover of the South, which, once broken up by it, do not

South, which, once broken up by it, do not return until the disease is again contracted.

The great variety of disorders which arise from the irritation of this poison, such as Neutralgia, Rhacumatism, Gout, Headuche, Hiindness, Toothache, Earache, Castarth, Asthma, Palpitations, Spleake Affections, Hysteries, Pain in the Howels, Colle, Paralysis, and derargement of the Stomach, all of which become intermittent or periodical, have no speedier remedy than Aven's Acute Curae, which cures them all alike, and protects the system from future attacks. As a preventive, it is of immense service in those communities where Fever and Ague prevails, as it stays the development of the disease if taken on the first approach of the premonitory symptoms. Travellers and temporary residents are thus enabled to defy these disorders, and faw will ever suffer if they avail themselves of the protection this remedy affords.

For Liver Complaines, arising from torpidity, it is an excellent remedy; it stimulates this organ into healthy activity, and produces many remarkable cures where other medicines fail.
